

Alan W. Barton, Ph.D.

Alan W. Barton

Assistant Professor, Sociology and Community Development
Faculty Associate, Center for Community and Economic Development
Ph.D., Cornell University,
Development Sociology
M.S., University of Washington,
Forest Policy and Land Use Planning
B.A., University of California,
Berkeley, Sociology/Spanish

Office: 214 Kethley

Phone: (662) 846-4097

E-mail: abarton@deltastate.edu

Courses Taught: Principles of Sociology, Methods of Social Research, Social Problems, Sustainable Development, Environment and Society, Population and Environment, Applied Rural Sociology, Sociology of the Mass Media, Education and Participatory Community Development, Engaging the Social Sciences, Integrative Seminar in the Social Sciences

Research: Sustainable Development, Heritage Tourism, Protected Area Management, Local Responses to Global Change

Service: Education for Sustainable Development, Assessment in Education, Student Engagement

Other: Director and Principal Investigator, The Delta Rural Poll (Center for Community and Economic Development); Researcher, Mississippi Delta Heritage Area (Delta Center for Culture and Learning); Vice President, Friends of Dahomey National Wildlife Refuge.

