France from the Guillotine through de Gaulle will examine the development of French culture, economics, politics, and society between 1789 and 1990.

Major topics include the French Revolution, industrialization, gender, both world wars, the French empire (including Viet Nam), and France in the contemporary world.

Class will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 12:15 to 1:30. Movies and especially discussion will break up lectures. Major assignments include a five page paper, oral presentation, mid-term, and final exam. Class participation will be encouraged and rewarded.

This course does not require any previous knowledge of history beyond History 103 & 104 (World Civilizations I and II). Non-history majors are welcome to sign up!

For more information or to register for class, please contact Thomas Laub at tlaub@deltastate.edu