ART Mission Statement

Mission statement

The purposes of the Art Department are: to train teachers of art for the elementary and secondary schools, to prepare students for careers in the professional fields of art, and to offer courses to other students who wish to take art for its aesthetic and cultural values.

The Art Department will provide students with both fundamental and advanced understandings of their chosen artistic concentrations including the studies of Graphic Design, Crafts, Painting, Sculpture, and Photography.

The Art Department will develop and promote an environment of artistic achievement through presenting the broadest possible range of learning experiences for its students.

Through a diverse offering of coursework, guest artists and lecturers, field trips, class projects in the local community and other arts related learning events, the Art Department seeks to educate art students, students from across the university, and local community members in the arts and related fields.

The Art Department will support graduating students as they make the transition into professional artists and art teachers by providing information, skills, and professional guidance.

Learning Outcome

Each graduate will demonstrate proficiency in studio art.

Each graduate will demonstrate a knowledge and understanding of art history.

Each graduate will demonstrate methods and procedures important for effective art teaching that reflects an understanding of the Mississippi Visual and Performing Arts Frameworks.

Data Collection (Evidence)

Grades and test scores will be collected by the department. Grade distribution in studio art classes, art history, and evaluation forms completed by supervising teachers and cooperating teacher in student teaching internships and PRAXIS Tests will be analyzed to determine weakness and strength.

Results of Evaluation

95% of students earned a grade of “C” or better in art studio and art history classes. 100% of students passed student teaching once admitted. Two student did not pass the PLT on the first try this spring and one student passed the PLT on the second try this spring. Studio art and art history class scores will be monitored to see if curriculum adjustments need to be made. Students will be advised to take art studio and art history courses that will help prepare them for the Art Content Specialty Area Test of the PRAXIS II.

Use of Evaluation Results

Studio art and art history classes will continue to be monitored and courses will be re-examined if students do not meet the minimum score or the grade of “C”. PRAXIS specialty test will continue to be monitored, practice tests will be given and courses will be re-examined if students do not meet the minimum score.

Final portfolios comprised of 10-15 graphic design projects are presented for Senior Reviews each spring semester. The portfolio represents the student's range of computer application skill, mastery of typography and layout problems, and creative/conceptual. Every graphic design student must successfully complete the review before graduation.

Internships are evaluated by the supervisor of the firm providing the internship and are based on a rating scale for performance, adaptability and other factors. The evaluation also shows the strength, weakness, and probable success in the graphic design field. Exit interviews are held after the completion of the graphic design internship with the graphic design instructors and the art department chair

Delta State University FY2013 Unit Level Report

Department: Art

- Students will have the ability to distinguish the stylistic characteristics of the major periods of Western art history and thus be able to place unknown works of art into the proper context

Data Collection

Students will be evaluated via traditional testing broadened to include multiple learning strategies.

Testing and class evaluation includes:

- visual identification of previously seen artworks which requires students to place them into the correct historical and cultural reference
- visual identification of unknown artworks which requires students to place them into the correct historical and cultural reference
- general art vocabulary as seen in short student written essays as well as short-answer and objective questions
- the ability to relate the works into the global aspects of human development
- assigned readings from contemporary art sources
- the ability of the student to participate actively in discussions which defend or dispel presented ideas

Results of Evaluation

Results of the evaluation which include traditional testing as well as classroom engagement are as follows:

- 69% of the students passed the course with a "C" or better which correlates with the projected norms
- 25% of the students received a grade of "A"
- 32% of the students received a grade of "F"

Use of Results

Resulting data suggests additional information would be beneficial to the course evaluation.

- Records should be kept of students who take additional higher level Art History courses as electives after taking ART 401
- Assessment should be made to determine the reasons for student failure and appropriate adjustments made if warranted

Data Collection

Data collection will be generated by the use of traditional objective and discussion based testing methods, written papers which require personal analysis and reflection, and classroom participation. Data will be recorded for each student's performance as well as for participation in out of classroom experiences, and recorded using the school accepted grading policy of letter grades "A" through "F".

Results of Evaluation

Data collection followed the standard acceptable bell curve and identified that 69% passed the class with a grade of "C" or better. Additionally 31% failed the course with a grade of "F". No student received a grade of "D".

25% received the letter grade of "A"

19% received the letter grade of "B"

25% received the letter grade of "C"

0% received the letter grade of "D"

31% received the letter grade of "F"

Use of Results

Using the data generated identified several considerations. First, it can be speculated that wherein the range of pass to fail ratio is acceptable, the higher number of "F" grades is significant. This can be due to student apathy or a failure of comprehension due to teacher or student effort. Additionally, it can be seen that there is 44% of grades in the "A" and "B" range which signifies a higher level of above average comprehension than of a lack of comprehension (Grades of "F") Whereas this can be initially suspected as the part of student apathy (i.e. not attending classes, not preparing for classes) it would be beneficial to maintain and evaluate comparable results for a longer period of time, and to maintain records of student numbers who take additional course work in Art History as a non-required elective.

Data Collection

Students are asked to respond to visual art works in the form of classroom discussion and through response papers which include bibliographies requiring both primary and secondary sources.

Results of Evaluation

Three response papers were assigned which required students to examine art works from personal, analytical and historical/cultural viewpoints. Of the papers submitted on time, the results were as follows:

Paper 1 39% received a passing grade (D or better)

Paper 2 76% received a passing grade (D or better)

Paper 3 79% received a passing grade (D or better)

Classroom discussions showed a gradual increase in understanding as noted by personal observations

Use of Results

Outcomes were acceptable but troubling. The significant number of papers not turned in or those which received a grade of "F" needs to be addressed by possibly introducing response papers in stages. Earlier papers could ask for reactions to a fewer number of objectives.

99% of students participate in a variety of art venues with the largest amount attending school sponsored events such as art openings and History Department Film Nights.

Use of Results

Whereas the majority of students attend outside art events, the variety of events is somewhat stagnant. It appears that students restrict themselves to on-campus events with art openings being the most prevalent. Additional ease of access to community based art activities needs to be considered.
