The Student Success Center is a student’s college compass! We are here to help students successfully navigate their college experience at Delta State as they make their way from classroom to cap and gown. We proudly provide a wide range of student support services that can be tailored to meet the individual needs of your student. A student’s ship doesn’t have to be sinking to take advantage of the services that we offer – we are here for him/her regarding even the most basic academic support needs. If a student needs to turn a “B” into an “A” to boost that GPA, we have resources to help with that also. Encourage your student to browse our site, send us an email, give us a call, or better yet, come by and see us!

Frequently Asked Questions:

What is FYS? First Year Seminar (FYS) is a program offered to all incoming students at Delta State (Freshmen and Transfer) that focuses on getting students ready academically while also welcoming them socially to Delta State! A team of instructors from around the University and student peer mentors discuss everything from time management to extracurriculars, learning styles to group activities, critical thinking to opportunities for relaxation. Offered as a weekly 50-minute class, worth 1 graded credit hour.

What do I do if my student calls and says, “I hate my major?” If your student hates his major, he should reach out to his academic advisor right away to discuss the issue. If he is uncomfortable with talking to his advisor first, he can contact Academic Advising Services, a division of the Student Success Center. This division helps students explore their interests and matches them to majors offered at Delta State. Once he finds a major that suits him, he can then talk to his advisor about changing his major. If your student does not know who his/her advisor is, the student can contact the department secretary of the major, or call Academic Advising Services, a Division of the Student Success Center, at 662-846-4577.

What does it mean if my student calls me and says he received an S.O.S. email? S.O.S. stands for Stay Okra Strong. We help students get connected to academic resources that can be used throughout their time in college. If a student receives an S.O.S. email, it means that the student should answer the email and make an appointment. Students receive S.O.S. emails because someone (usually an instructor) believes that the student could benefit from some extra help in his/her courses. This help could include: tutoring, study skills techniques, time management, and help with other academically related issues. As we like to say, receiving a S.O.S. doesn’t get a student in trouble – it prevents the student from getting into trouble in the future!

What do I do if my student calls me and says, “I’m failing college algebra?” Your student may visit the Academic Support Lab in Union 302B to receive peer tutoring in college algebra. The Academic Support Lab is open Monday through Thursday from 8:00 am until 8:00 pm. Your student may visit the Math Lab in Caylor Hall room 318. The Math Lab is open on Monday from 1:00 until 7:00 pm and Tuesday through Thursday from 1:00 until 5:00 pm. Tutoring is free to any DSU student.

For more information on the services provided by the Student Success Center, please see pages 38-39 in the Summer 2016 Orientation Booklet.
