Greetings!

Welcome to Delta State University and to our third annual “Winning the Race” conference!

This year’s theme is “Advancing Social Justice in Communities and Institutions.” The dynamic conference program promises to be as enlightening and inspirational as our previous years’ experiences.

Our outstanding faculty and presenters will guide interactive discussions on social justice that touch on civil rights and the law, economic opportunities, education, community, and culture. We will welcome keynoter, Tim Wise, and engage in a unique Delta Mayors’ Roundtable moderated by Congressman Bennie Thompson.

I am grateful for your participation in this signature conference on our campus, and I invite you to be fully engaged as we address issues that are critical to all of us in the Delta and in Mississippi.

Very best regards,

William N. LaForge
President, Delta State University
Welcome Attendees,

You have joined Delta State University for an important event. I am greatly honored and pleased to serve as chair of the External Advisory Committee to support the leadership of my cherished friend and Delta State University’s president, William N. LaForge. I applaud the far-sighted and dedicated faculty and staff who worked together to frame and implement a conference to build a fairer and more inclusive society. Together, they are helping lay the foundation for a brighter future.

It is hard to get people to put aside their old insular biases and feelings and their reluctance to embrace new attitudes and new ways of thinking. The old mindsets and the old suspicions can only be put aside by forward thinking leadership, and the influence of this university has been a huge factor in that process. This is an essential role that this institution must continue to play. It is out of the intellectual leadership on this campus that there must come the constructive ideas which will guide the region. There are two overriding causes that seem to me to rise above everything else. They are public education and racial reconciliation. It is here that this university has an inescapable duty to lead. Delta State has taken this challenge, and this conference is an example of that leadership.

Our society is rapidly becoming more diverse, more complicated racially, more subject to misunderstanding and mistrust. Unless we come together to work at eliminating or at least reducing the remaining areas of racial tension and misunderstanding, this region and this country are not going to be as good for our children and grandchildren to live in as they desire. Given the fabulous natural wealth and advanced social and educational institutions that we have, that would be a tragedy indeed if we let divisions over race diminish the quality of our lives as it has too often in the past.

All of us are products of our life experiences and the times and conditions in which we were raised. We must now work at developing a sense of trust. Recognizing that we are all in this together—that we must move past the old division of race and recognize our common interests and our common humanity. This will happen only as enough of us strive to make it happen. That is why I am pleased to be part of this initiative that is being undertaken on this campus.

Moving forward in a productive manner will take more collaboration and partnering than we have ever had before. It will mean building the capacity for local development. It will mean building the human relationships necessary to have a true sense of community where people work together instead of pulling in opposite directions. The energized and creative leadership now at Delta State University can be a force that will change this region forever. Together, you can accomplish for this region an opportunity for the people of the Delta to prosper wherever they choose to live, whether it be here in the warm familiar surroundings of their home region, or whether it be anywhere else. This is a task worthy of the noble heritage of Delta State University and one you are fulfilling.

Thank you for allowing me to be part of such an essential and significant effort.

William F. Winter
Former Governor, State of Mississippi
The Winning the Race Conference was developed with three overarching goals: engage in conversations with campus and community constituencies that will build an appreciation for diversity differences and a spirit of community through shared ideas; promote a broad discourse on race relations by building conversations to bring together diverse communities in the Delta through sharing of ideas and building cooperation; and to rekindle a hope that Delta communities will move toward greater equality and forward and open thinking while reducing racial disparities and tensions.

BREAKOUT SESSION TRACKS

TRACK 1. SOCIAL JUSTICE, CIVIL RIGHTS & LAW
This track has sessions that are designed to address a diverse set of issues related to civil rights, racial equity and racial healing. There is a focus on addressing racial differences in the implementation of law in the criminal justice system and associated societal consequences.

TRACK 2. ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITIES
This track addresses matters relating to equity and economic opportunities with an emphasis on how societal organizations advance or restrict socioeconomic opportunities and mobility among diverse groups. Sessions will emphasize the important roles that diversity and inclusion play in creating economic opportunity on local and global scales.

TRACK 3. EDUCATION & COMMUNITY
This track addresses diversity in the college curriculum and diversity in student leadership. The segment includes conversations on how to teach race and race relations in the classroom at both conceptual and practical levels as well as from historical perspectives. It facilitates dialogue on positive race relations as well as on meaningful actions to foster understanding that builds strong relationships for connected communities. Global perspectives are incorporated in all sessions.

TRACK 4. CULTURE & COMMUNITY
This track addresses the institutionalization of best practices for inclusion, cultural awareness and respect for differences, while charting avenues for sustained action in diverse communities. Sessions will help to create change through a spirit of cooperation by motivating participants to enhance their appreciation for experiences and perspectives shaped by culture, to create positive change in their communities, and to spread awareness by cooperating and forming alliances with diverse groups.

MODERATOR
Will Hooker, Bolivar County Administrator

Hooker is a native of Bolivar County and currently resides in Shelby MS. He is a graduate of East Side High School and received a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry and an Executive Master of Business degree from Delta State University. He is a 1998 graduate of Leadership Bolivar County and a 2010 graduate of Leadership Mississippi, with both programs geared to identify emerging leaders at the local and state levels. He embraces the county’s motto of “Working Together for a Better Bolivar County” through building bridges and relationships across local, state and federal levels – all the while improving the quality of life for citizens of Bolivar County.
Amzie Moore, II. Academic Advisor and Adjunct Professor, Chicago State Univ.

Moore is a professional academic advisor and an adjunct professor of Social Work, African American Studies, and Sociology at Chicago State University. He received his bachelor’s degree from Hampton University, his master’s degree from the University of Chicago’s School of Social Service Administration, and is currently a doctoral student at Loyola University Chicago’s School of Social Work. His academic areas of interest are social policy, labor markets, human capital, urban education, urban poverty, and poverty and inequality. As a working subject for his dissertation, Amzie is interested in understanding barriers to human capital accumulation among the urban poor youth, as well as the relationship between psychological capital and human capital accumulation among urban poor youth. Also, Amzie currently works as a research assistant and site director for the Risk and Resilience Lab of Loyola University Chicago. At the Risk and Resilience Lab, Amzie is working on a research project that explores the effectiveness of cross-age mentoring on urban youth, who are exposed to violence, and its impact on reducing negative outcomes associated with such exposure.

BOOK SIGNING
12:00PM – 12:30PM // BPAC LOBBY

White Like Me: Reflections on Race from a Privileged Son by Tim Wise explores how racial identity and whiteness influence the lives of white Americans, by examining how they have impacted his own life. Wise examines what it means to be white in a nation created for the benefit of those who are “white like him,” and how privilege seeps into every institutional arrangement, from education to employment to the justice system. Importantly, he also discusses the ways that white privilege can ultimately harm its recipients in the long run and make progressive social change less likely.

12:00PM – 1:00PM // AMZIE MOORE HOUSE

On behalf of the Bolivar County Board of Supervisors, the public is invited to attend the ribbon cutting ceremony for the Amzie Moore Museum & Interpretive Center located at 614 Chrisman Street.

TRACK 1. SOCIAL JUSTICE, CIVIL RIGHTS AND LAW \ JACOB CONFERENCE CENTER, JAMES M. EWING HALL

PRESENTERS

Charles Westmoreland. Assistant Professor of History, Delta State University

Westmoreland has been a member of the DSU faculty since 2009. He earned his B.S. in History from Ferrum College (1998), M.A. in History from the University of North Carolina-Charlotte (2000), and Ph.D. in History from the University of Mississippi (2008). His primary teaching and research interests are in modern U.S. history with an emphasis on the American South. He is currently working with the University of Georgia Press on the publication of his book manuscript entitled “Southern Pharisees: Prayer, Public Life, and Politics in the South, 1955-1996.” Dr. Westmoreland’s book will examine how religion, particularly the practice of prayer, has shaped southern public life and politics by focusing on the Civil Rights Movement and school prayer controversies that engulfed the region since the 1950s and 1960s. Dr. Westmoreland is currently the News and Notices editor for the Journal of Mississippi History and has published book reviews in the Journal of Southern History, Journal of Southern Religion, and H-South. Since 2009, he has taught the following upper-level and graduate courses: Historiography, Religion in America, Sports in American Culture and Society, The New South, The U.S. in the 1940s, The U.S. since 1945, and The History of Jim Crow.

Byron D’Andra Orey. Professor of Political Science and Chair, Jackson State University

Orey’s research is in the area of race and politics, focusing heavily on racial attitudes and legislative behavior. In 2011, Dr. Orey was recognized by President Myers as Jackson State University’s Teacher of the Year and was nominated for the state-wide honor of Teacher of the Year. He also is the recipient of the 2011 Jewel Limar Prestage Mentorship Award and the 2008 Julia Cooper Teaching Award, both presented by the National Conference of Black Political Scientists. In 2009, Dr. Orey won a nation-wide competition with TESS: Time Sharing Experiments for the Social Sciences to examine the impact of such trusted sources as President Obama and former President Clinton on racial attitudes. He has published over twenty scholarly articles and book chapters and is currently working on two Book-Length Manuscripts: 1) Contemporary Racial Attitudes in Black and White; and 2) Strange Legislative Bedfellows: The Intersectionality of Race, Gender and Party in State Legislatures.
